\(K_p\) is the equilibrium constant calculated from the partial pressures of a reaction equation. It is used to express the relationship between product pressures and reactant pressures. It is a unitless number, although it relates the pressures.

Contributors and Attributions

- Sarah Reno (UC Davis)