DIBAL can be used to reduce many a functional group, but it is most commonly used to reduce carboxylic acid esters to aldehydes, which can not be done using lithium aluminum hydride, the traditional reducing agent used to reduce carbonyl compounds.

eg:

Mechanism:
Contributors

- Gamini Gunawardena from the OChemPal site (Utah Valley University)