In a mass spectrum, the peak representing the molecular ion is called the molecular ion peak (symbol: M peak). Excluding any peaks due to the presence of heavier isotopes, the molecular ion peak is the peak with the highest mass-to-charge ratio.

see also base peak

Contributors

- Gamini Gunawardena from the OChemPal site (Utah Valley University)